GLASS IRKED
BY PECORA'S
MORGAN QUIZFIRM'S INTEREST IN UTILITY CONCERNS
DISCLOSED

BY WILLIAM L. BEALE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Washington, May 26 (AP)—An uproar, precipitated by demand from Virginia's quick speaking Senator Glass to know the goal of the inquiry into affairs of J. P. Morgan and company, climaxed a disclosure today that the firm had an interest in utility concerns whose territory embraces almost half the population of the country.

Breaking the rigid rules of silence a crowd vigorously applauded Ferdinand Pecora, the banking committee counsel, when he hinted he was ready to resign if senators were dissatisfied with his work.

"We're Having A Circus"
Then as J. P. Morgan sat by apparently amused at the unusual spectacle revolving senatorial dignity into a round-table squabble, Glass retorted, half facing the crowd:

"Oh yes, that's what it's all about. We're having a circus and all we need now is peanuts and colored lemonade."

George Howard, president of the United Corporation, was on the stand at the time of Virginia's explosive Democrat's digging questions. He was telling of the organization in January, 1929, of this great Morgan holding unit with interests in utility companies doing 22 per cent of the nation's electricity and gas business and serving areas with over 50,000,000 people.

The testimony delivered in the oppressive heat of the senate caused some show that United Corporation received from Morgan & Company at $12,000,000 less than market prices, large blocks of utility stocks. In return, United gave the Morgan house $60,000 shares of preferred stock, $60,000 of common and $14,200 in option warrants.

Then, a few days later for $10,000,000 Morgan & Company bought an additional 400,000 shares of common and 1,000,000 option warrants. The options cost $1 each and entitled the holder to purchase a share of United common at $27.50. Less than a month later these shares could have been sold at a $30 profit on the market.

While Pecora was drawing this information from Howard—who sat just in front of John W. Davis, Morgan counsel, and George Whitney, partner and testified all day yesterday—and was about to contend the securities were issued "against the interests of the corporation to the benefit of a small group of investors," Glass interrupted:

Questions His Employment
"Wait a minute, I don't know what this is all about."

"Has there been any violation of federal or state laws in issuing these securities?" Glass asked Howard.

"No, sir."

"I have examined the minutes and I don't find at any time that the employment of Mr. Pecora was authorized," Glass stated.

"There is no question of the authority in my mind," Senator Coston (D-Colo.) said.

"I found no record of the employment but that is immaterial," Glass continued, "because I think the committee is satisfied with"

JAPAN OPPOSES
NAVAL RATIOCan't Sign Disarmament
Treaty if Old Basis
Is Maintained

Geneva, May 26 (AP)—Japan cannot sign the projected general disarmament treaty if it refers to the Washington and London naval conventions which bind her to the short end of a 5-5-3 ratio, Tokyo's spokesman, Ambassador Naotake Sato, informed the disarmament conference today.

Reference to these former agreements, Mr. Sato said, would amount to perpetuating the present proportion in the new treaty, which is contrary to Japan's desires.

The Japanese delegate made it clear that his country proposed at the end of the London treaty to seek a revision which will give the Japanese navy greater relative strength in the face of American and British sea powers.

Attitude Disturbing
The Japanese exposition of this attitude, which had been suggested by Japanese spokesmen on former occasions in earlier phases of the conference, was particularly disturbing today in view of recent revival of hopes for agreement among the great powers.

The Japanese declaration evoked a comment from Dr. Wellington Koo, delegate of China, who told the conference that China is the "victim of aggressions," obviously referring to Japan.

China, which has practically no navy, Dr. Koo said, reserves the right to create one because she is the object of continued armed invasion in violation of international agreements.

Japan's views were presented to the conference in the form of an amendment calling for deletion from the British draft plan of the clause which would embody the Washington and London naval treaties in the proposed new convention.

The existing naval treaties, the Japanese amendment said, "are unstable in character and will soon expire" and they therefore should not be referred to in the new treaty.

The British plan, now under consideration by the conference, provides that limitations of the London and Washington accords be included in the convention now being worked out.

STATE HOUSE
PUTS OKEH ON
PENSION LAWMEASURE GIVES $25
MONTHLY TO AGED
INDIGENTS

BY GILBERT T. SHILSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Lansing, May 26 (AP)—An old-age pension law was in prospect today for the first time in the state's history. The house approved the proposal by a vote of 61 to 23.

Although opponents called the bill, which provides for the payment of $25 a month to indigent persons of more than 65 years of age, an "empty shell" because it would not become effective for two years, many rallied to its support. Advocacy of old age pensions was a plank in the Democratic platform, but on the roll call several members of that party voted negatively while nearly a score of Republicans supported the measure.

Better Than Poor House
The state would pay 25 percent and the counties 75 percent of the cost. Effectiveness was deferred until July 1, 1935, to give contemplated administration sales tax an opportunity to produce the needed revenue. Estimates of the amount the state would have to pay indigents ranged from $500,000 to $2,000,000 or more a year, with the counties paying three times as much.

Representatives Ate Dykstra, of Grand Rapids, James G. Frey, of Battle Creek, and others lauded the pension plan as a "humane way of caring for the aged." They contended it would cost less than the poor house system. Rep. Vern J. Brown, Republican, Mason, opposing the bill charged politics would be played by public officers trying to put constituents on the pension list.

Probate judges would administer the act in the counties, in cooperation with the state welfare department.

Those who voted against the bill were—Republicans: Brown, Calvert, Hanna, Helme, Kimball, Look, McDonald, Morrison, Nichols, Odell, Priest, Tibbitts, Vanderwerf, Watson, Wilson; Democrats: Barber, Hatch, Howlett, Kellogg, Charles F. Parker, Stout, Strange, Voorhees.

The bill goes to the senate.

Approve School Aid
Other highly important measures were speeded on the way to the senate. By a vote of 81 to 1 the house adopted the Thatcher-Slas bill appropriating $15,000,000 a year for school aid. The money would be distributed in proportion to the number of school children and teachers. Its proponents claimed it

STORM STRIKES
LAPEER COUNTYMany Farm Buildings in Area Destroyed, One
Woman Injured

Flint, Mich., May 26 (AP)—A wind of high velocity swept across Lapeer county late today, leaving a twisting path of destruction in its wake.

More than a dozen farm buildings were damaged or destroyed, and one woman, Miss Julia Church, 60, had both ankles broken beneath a piece of furniture upset by the wind.

Tonight parties were being organized at Dryden to invade the stricken territory to aid in clearing the debris which blocked highways. Telephone lines were blown down, and communication from the stricken area was difficult. No deaths have been reported, and no estimate of building or crop damage made, although it is expected to run into many thousands of dollars.

Beside the Church farm, at Thornville, buildings were destroyed on those of Austin Hodges, Bert and Anos Laur, Eber and George Blow. Terriety near Metamora, Imlay City and Dryden was hit by the high winds, which lasted for nearly half an hour, witnesses said. State road M-53 was reported blocked by fallen trees and utility poles.

At the Church farm a huge tree fell across the roof of the house, crushing it. Miss Church, inside, was injured, but her brother Joseph, 43, standing on a porch, was not hurt.

The storm apparently cut a path between an eighth and a quarter of a mile in width and about 15 miles long. Its course was erratic, and it lifted and descended, skipping a number of farms only to descend with all its fury later and demolish nearby buildings.

Former Escanaba Girl
Chosen Queen of Fair,
Awarded $5,000 Prize

Chicago, May 26 (AP)—Miss Lilian Anderson of Racine, Wis., tonight was chosen queen of the world fair from among fifty young women selected in an international contest.

Miss Lorraine Nevens of Evanston, Ill., was chosen first lady in waiting and Miss Ruth Hardie of Chicago second.

The contest was sponsored by the Chicago Tribune and fifteen affiliated newspapers. Miss Anderson and her ladies-in-waiting will occupy positions of prominence in activities at the opening of the world's fair tomorrow and will serve at various functions throughout it.

Miss Anderson, 23 and blonde, will receive a $5,000 cash award. Miss Nevens, $3,000, and Miss Hardie, $2,000.

The 51 contestants, all garbed alike in eggshell taffeta, paraded past the judges under glaring spotlights in a loop hotel ballroom.

The judges were: Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Howard Linn, Mrs. Robert P. McCormack, Mrs. William H. Mitchell, Mrs. Pauline Palmer, Mrs. Howard Ellis, and Wallace Kirk, representing Chicago society and art.

Miss Anderson is five feet, six inches tall and weighs 125 pounds. Her hair is close cut. She is a cashier of a tea room at Racine, a position she took after leaving high school because of financial difficulties.

Miss Anderson's mother is dead and her father lives at Escanaba, Mich.

Alexander Anderson, 316 North Eleventh street, is the father of the world's fair queen. It was reported yesterday that Mr. Anderson did not know his daughter was entered in the international contest. Miss Anderson attended high school here for three years.

BOND ISSUANCE
BILL APPROVEDMeasure Puts State in Position to Get
Federal Funds

Lansing, May 26 (AP)—Governor Clegg today signed the Flynn-Casse bill authorizing the issuance of bonds by communities to finance self-liquidating projects. Its sponsors hope it will bring almost $200,000,000 of federal funds into Michigan, and provide work for thousands of men for at least a year.

The measure is an enabling act to put this state in position to take advantage of the proposed federal work relief program. It authorizes the issuance of bonds by local governing bodies, without a vote of the people. The bonds in turn would be pledged with the Reconstruction Finance corporation as security for advances.

Scores of projects have been listed by the trade recovery committee, the conservation and highway departments and the stream control commission which might be undertaken if the funds become available. They total $490,000,000, whereas the state's share of the federal program is expected to be around $197,000,000.

Suggested projects include: highway work, $81,000,000; three bridges and grade separations in Grand Rapids, $1,550,000; bridge at Port Huron, $3,501,000; Grand Rapids water works, $1,500,000; yacht basin and improvements at Traverse City, $350,000; sewerage improvements in Bessemer, $20,000; Newberry, $70,000; Pentwater, $22,000; Rockford, $30,000; South Haven, $65,000; Grand Rapids, $575,000; Holland, $20,000; Ionia, $110,000; Iron Mountain-Kingsford, $140,000; Ironwood, $150,000; Jackson, $350,000; Kalamazoo, $350,000; Ludington, $65,000; Marquette, $75,000; Lowell, $25,000; Muskegon, $60,000; Munising, $60,000; East Grand Rapids, $125,000; Gladstone, $50,000; Grand Haven, $200,000.

Four other measures, headed by the Burbanis bill declaring cider and fruit juices sold within 15 days after manufacture to be non-intoxicating, were signed.

They included the Berka bill defining newspapers eligible to receive legal advertising.

HOUSE PASSES
PUBLIC WORKS
BILL, 324 TO 76EXPECT SENATE TO EASE BURDEN ON SMALL INCOMES

BY CECIL B. DICKSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Washington, May 26 (AP)—Opposition in the house to the Roosevelt $3,300,000,000 public works—industrial—taxation bill crumbled tonight and the measure, amended to plug up holes in the come tax laws, was passed 324 to 76.

It goes to the senate where favorable action is expected by Democratic leaders after the income tax program approved by the house is revised to ease the burden on men of small incomes.

Repeal Sales Tax
Before acting on the bill, the house voted down an attempt by Representative McCormack (D-Mass.) to insert a 2 1/2 per cent general manufacturers' sales tax into the bill to finance the $3,300,000,000 public works bond issue.

In rejecting the sales tax, 265 to 137, the house approved a revenue program increasing income and gasoline taxes and making corporate dividends subject to the higher income levies.

The taxes are designed to raise $220,000,000 annually to cover interest and amortization charges on the bond issue.

Without a dissenting vote, the house adopted an amendment by Representative Ragon (D-Ark.) designed to prevent income tax payers from charging off year-old losses in making out income tax returns.

This amendment grew out of the disclosures before the senate banking committee investigating J. P. Morgan and Company. Ragon told the house that had this amendment been in the law it would not have been possible for Morgan and his partners to avoid payments of taxes. It limits to the current year deductions of net losses of all descriptions sustained by individuals and partnerships. Under the present law, a year's carry over is allowed.

The bill empowers President Roosevelt to establish fair codes of competition in industry through suspension of the anti-trust laws.

Jobs for 4,000,000
He is empowered to fix maximum working hours and minimum wages for workers in February.

The public works program has been estimated capable of giving about four million men jobs. About $2,000,000,000 is to be advanced to the states and local governments, 70 per cent in loans and thirty per cent in outright gifts.

In addition, $440,000,000 is to be given the states for highway construction. This is to be distributed on the basis of one half for population and a fourth each for area and post road mileage.

The balance of about $900,000,000 is to be expended on federal projects including a $100,000,000 program for flood control.

Vacancies in Upper Peninsula

Marquette, May 26 (AP)—More than 70 men have taken examinations in four upper peninsula towns this week as applicants for appointment as conservation officers to fill vacancies in the staff of Colonel William A. Bergin, of Marquette, upper peninsula chief for the state conservation department. The last examinations were given today in Newberry to 20 applicants for the position of keeper at the Cusino state game refuge.

The tests were given under the direction of H. R. Sayre, of Lansing, chief field administrator for the conservation department; Ray E. Cotton, of Lansing, secretary of the state conservation commission; Francis Purdon, of Marquette, U. P. inspector for the department, and Colonel Bergin.

In Watermenet 24 men took an examination for game warden to fill a vacancy caused by the death of a former incumbent. In Crystal Falls seven men took the test for district supervisor to fill the vacancy left by the death of the late William Rigstad. In Manistigue 23 applicants wrote the examination for game warden. The successful applicant will be added to the field force as an additional warden for the Schoolcraft district.

Colors of Rotary
Have Been Carried
To Every Extreme

Houghton, Mich., May 26 (AP) Rotary International's flag, symbolic of a world-wide brotherhood of service clubs, has now been carried to the "utmost ends" of the earth.

Taken to the North and South Poles by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and by Prof. Auguste Piccard into the stratosphere, the Rotary flag was carried today by the Houghton Rotary club to the bottom of the Quinny mine in the Michigan copper district, the world's deepest excavation below sea level.

This completed the "circle"—the furthest north, the furthest south, the greatest height, and the greatest depth.

The Quinny mine is 9,009 feet in inclined depth, equivalent to 6,254 feet vertically. In vertical depth below sea level it is 5,092 feet. Below the level of Lake Superior, it is 5,694 feet.

The Houghton Rotary club with a membership of approximately 50 today visited the Quinny mine, where moving pictures were taken. Eight of the members attired in miners' outfits, headed by President James Fisher, physicist at the Michigan College of Mining and Technology, and Dr. W. O. Hotchkiss, president of the college, accompanied General Manager Charles L. Lawton of the Quinny company and Thomas Maunders, head mining captain, into the mine.

From the bottom of the mine, a direct telephone connection was established with Rotary headquarters in Chicago and a conversation conducted with Rotary International officials.

The Quinny mine, opened in 1848, is the oldest of the district's present mines. In its 85 years of existence it has produced more than 770,000,000 pounds of refined copper and has returned to stockholders $27,092,500 in dividends.

WILL ABANDON
GOLD CLAUSES
IN CONTRACTS

Washington, May 26 (AP)—The administration moved today to elevate silver and paper money to the same legal standing as gold.

A bill sent to congress by the treasury was started on its way toward passage in both house and senate. It is designed to authorize the use of legal tender money in the fulfillment of all existing and future contracts, private and international.

The measure brought an immediate assertion from Senator Glass (D-Va.) that it would be held unconstitutional "if there is any integrity left in the courts with regard to the sanctity of contracts."

Opposition Crystallizes
It was described by President Roosevelt as simply designed to legalize an already existing fact since the United States went off the gold standard in effect by the imposition of the recent gold embargo and the issuance of the presidential order calling in gold held by private citizens.

The proposal would permit the government as well as private debtors to meet their obligations with legal tender money instead of gold.

Despite outspoken opposition from some members on both sides plans were made for its speedy consideration.

Secretary Woodin and Chairman Fletcher, of the senate banking committee, in explanation of the measure said it was needed to facilitate administration of the government's campaign against hoarding and to remove any question of "bad faith" in connection with "bartering" government loans.

New congressional leaders would comment on the legislation without further study, but Senator McNary, the Republican leader, predicted it would meet with opposition "because of the retroactive feature."

The resolution, introduced by Chairman Fletcher and Steagall of the senate and house banking committees, respectively, asserted that "the holdings or dealings in gold affect the public interest, and are therefore subject to proper regulation and restriction."

It then asserted that obligations "which purport to give the obligee a right to require payment in gold of a particular kind obstruct the power of the congress to regulate the money of the United States and are inconsistent with the declared policy of the congress to maintain at all times the equal power of every dollar."

Aim of Legislation
With this preamble, the resolution then proceeded to declare all such provisions "to be against public policy" and forbid any such provision in future obligations.

The aim of the legislation was sketched in the following paragraphs:

"Every obligation, heretofore or hereafter incurred whether or not any such provision is contained therein or made with respect thereto, shall be discharged upon payment, dollar for dollar, in any coin or currency which at the time of payment is legal tender for public and private debts."

"Any such provision contained in any law authorizing obligations to be issued by or under authority of the United States is hereby repealed."

HERRIOT TALKS ON WAR DEBTS

Tells France She Must Pay Interest Due or Get No Relief

Paris, May 26 (AP)—Payment of France's defaulted war debt interest due last December was an essential condition laid down by President Roosevelt in their Washington talks for any settlement of the Franco-American debt problem. Edouard Herriot, former premier, announced in the chamber of deputies today.

President Roosevelt told him, Mr. Herriot said, in their recent Washington talks that if France would agree to pay the $19,000,000 interest installment overdue since December 15 last, negotiations for a settlement of the issue could be undertaken immediately.

"When I discussed the debts with Mr. Roosevelt," said the special envoy to the Washington conversations, "I found a man as well disposed to us as a chief of state can be, but a man in the grip of difficulties."

"What Mr. Roosevelt told me was that the condition of all rearrangement was the payment of the December 15 installment. Payment of this was the essential condition, according to him."

Later Mr. Herriot extended his remarks.

"Negotiations have taken place between England and the United States," he said. "They have not been addressed to France and it is thus that confusion has arisen."

Responding to the declaration by Deputy Henry Franklin-Bouillon that President Roosevelt is helpless in the matter because he is "the prisoner of congress," Mr. Herriot said:

"It does not seem wise to deprecate in advance the possible effort of Mr. Roosevelt. That would be incorrect and imprudent."

Premier Daladier took no part in the discussion, the cabinet maintaining its position that it will not take the initiative unless it gets some new development from President Roosevelt, such as a moratorium on the June 15 payment with which to face the chamber.

Mr. Herriot is making practically a lone fight for payment.

SIX FARMERS PLEAD GUILTY

The crowd entered Judge Bradley's court room late in the day, some of the men wore handkerchiefs.

Rate because the judge refused their demands, farmers dragged him from his bench. He was carried from the courthouse and loaded on to a truck while spectators jeered and laughed.

He was crowned with an automobile hub cap. On trickled down into his eyes and over his face. Dust was thrown in his face. They shoved him to his knees and commanded that he pray. This he did, asking divine guidance in administering justice to all.

The rope tightened, the judge slumped unconscious. Then the mob fled. The judge was picked up by a passing motorist.

SIDE GLANCES

"Say, buddy, are you really working for the city, or just being initiated into some lodge?"

GLASS IRKED BY PECORA'S MORGAN QUIZ

Mr. Pecora's employment." Senator Couzens (R-Mich.) asked Chairman Fletcher for a ruling on Glass' challenge of authority and Fletcher said Pecora was carrying out instructions of the senate. Glass accused Couzens of lying "to die at me."

"This line of examination into the activities, operations and securities of the United Corporation," Pecora said, rising to his feet, "comes under that language of the senate resolution which directs an investigation into the 'issuing, offering and selling of securities.'"

"It has been shown 1,000,000 option warrants entitled the holder to buy common stock at $27.50 a share were sold to J. P. Morgan & Company at $1 each. Already it has been shown that a few days after this issue prices of the common stock on the exchange were nearly double $27.50."

"These securities were issued at terms certainly against the interests of the corporation to the benefit of a small group of investors."

"Couldn't you have made this statement to the subcommittee before this public investigation?" asked Glass. "As one member I would like to know so I wouldn't waste valuable time listening to question and answers of no importance to people of any intelligence."

"I submitted a questionnaire to the committee," Pecora replied. "Since then I have received no requests for information from any senator or the committee. Consequently I spent my time in New York."

"I did not seek this assignment, I appreciated and do appreciate the honor of being counsel for this committee. But I want to assure the senator from Virginia that the compensation of $255 a month is no incentive to me to continue."

There were outbursts of applause and then Glass said:

"I want to say that I was opposed to the counsel's compensation arrangement. I favored adequate compensation. I don't think the counsel is working for $255 a month. I think he is working for something else."

Costigan again interrupted to say he appreciated "the efficiency of the counsel" and that the inquiry "has been relevant and material." Fletcher stood up.

"Mr. Pecora came here at the instance of this committee," the chairman said. "He asked me later to prepare this resolution, which extended the power of the committee."

"I voted for it," Glass interrupted.

"Then Mr. Pecora," Fletcher continued, "prepared a plan for this inquiry. He presented a list of questions that he intended to ask to the full committee. We told him to go ahead."

"I didn't ask him to come down here from New York and report when he was busy. We were busy too. I trusted him. There was no reason to doubt his good faith. I am proud of his work."

More applause echoed about the marble walled room and then the committee adopted the motion of Senator Byrnes (D-SC) to adjourn until next Wednesday.

WILL ABANDON GOLD CLAUSES IN CONTRACTS

Legality of the gold clause in public and private contracts has been a moot question since President Roosevelt took the nation off the gold standard and issued regulations against the hoarding of the metal.

Chairman Steagall said the resolution was a move to "repeal the gold standard by statute."

Fletcher said it would specifically repeal the "gold clauses" in the acts of 1910, the second Liberty bond act and subsequent legislation.

Timothy Importance.

He made public a memorandum calling the legislation of "timothy importance" because:

"(A) It completely regularizes the present de facto situation as to both public and private debts."

"(B) An offering of treasury obligations must be announced on June 5 and issued June 15. It is essential that no question as to the good faith of the government be raised in connection with this issue or future issues."

"(C) It would greatly facilitate administration of the orders against hoarding."

"(D) It would eliminate existing uncertainty in business."

"(E) It places old 'gold clauses' and new 'legal tender' obligations on the same footing in respect of payment."

"(F) It would make certain of accomplishment the declared policy of congress."

Explaining further, Fletcher's memorandum said "questions of interpretation" had arisen with respect to legislation empowering the president to prevent the withdrawal and hoarding of gold and the Thomas inflation amendment.

The memorandum pointed out that gold is not now obtainable for payment of obligations and that the Thomas amendment was intended to make them payable in legal tender money but that doubt had arisen because of the "gold clause" in some contracts.

"This doubt should be removed," the memorandum said, adding:

"Future issues of government obligations should be payable in lawful currency of the United States and not in any specific coin. To promise to do otherwise under the present circumstances would open the government to severe and merited criticism."

This, however, requires legislation amending existing statutes relating to government obligations. It is essential that all obligations of the government, past and future, be treated alike."

Representative Byrnes of Tennessee, the Democratic leader, told the house the bill would be considered in the house Monday.

Spent Only $1.65 For His Groceries

Littlefield, Tex. (AP)—H. H. Thompson, Littlefield farmer, reports he spent only $1.65 of the income from his 1931-1932 cotton crop for groceries. All other supplies for the family—larder were produced by the Thompsons themselves, who keep chickens, cows and a garden.

In addition to practicing a "live at home" policy, Thompson diversifies his farm products, raising feed, cotton and cattle.

Tom Jones, Demon Dopester! Madison, Wis. (AP)—Tom Jones, veteran Wisconsin track coach, proved his aptitude for prognosticating track meet scores when he figured the Wisconsin-Marquette outcome would be 77 to 63, Marquette winning. The actual final score was 76 1/2 to 63 1/2.

Hulls Of Grain Put To Use For Filtering Water

New York—Chemists are converting the hulls of buckwheat, rice and other grains into a form of charcoal which filters seasonal bad odors and tastes out of drinking water.

The filter is called activated charcoal. Its efficiency is obtained by pulverizing charcoal. The finely divided particles of almost infinite number present an enormous total surface, upon which stick the microscopic things responsible for the tastes and odors.

The activated charcoal filtration system was developed by the Hackensack Water company, and the charcoal has been obtained largely from such things as peach and plum pits, paper pulp lignin and various kinds of wood.

The attempt to enlarge the charcoal by making the filter from farm wastes is reported by Dr. P. Burke Jacobs, senior chemist of the United States agricultural experiment station at Ames, Iowa, as a "promising field for expanding economic opportunity in agriculture."

New Device Takes Off Plaster Casts Like Can Opener

Schenectady, N. Y. (AP)—Plaster casts now can be removed from fractures, arms and legs as easily as opening a can of sardines. Instead of hacking them off with heavy pliers and saws that are uncomfortable for the patient.

The new device consists of lengths of wire placed between the inner bandages and the outer layers of cloth that are impregnated with plaster of Paris to form the cast.

When the time comes to remove the cast, the wires are wound up on a key-like instrument, which works something like the key used in opening sardine cans. The wire cuts through the cast as it is wound up, making removal easy.

The cast-removing apparatus is the invention of W. K. Kearsley, of the research laboratory of the General Electric company.

Athletic Heart Is Just A Myth, Says Physician

Minneapolis (AP)—"Athletic heart" says Dr. Harold S. Diehl, head of the University of Minnesota student infirmary, is nonexistent.

"So-called 'athletic heart' does not exist, and even cases of enlargement of the heart are extremely rare among amateur athletes," he contends.

"Definite enlargement of the heart, due to long periods of exertion, sometimes is found in such professional athletes as six-day bicycle riders and marathon swimmers, but college athletes are not strenuous or continuous enough to cause the heart to gain size."

Dr. Diehl believes the term "burned out," as applied to high school players, is rather a psychic term than one which can be applied physically.

"While it is true," he says, "that high school athletes, being younger, tire more quickly, their recuperative powers are greater."

All motor vehicles operated on the streets of Bucharest, Rumania, must be equipped with directional indicators as the result of a recent municipal order.

STATE HOUSE PUTS OKEH ON PENSION LAW

would enable school districts, crippled by the new 15-mill tax limitation, to open their schools next year, where otherwise they would have to close.

Like the old age pension fund, and a proposed $12,000,000 fund, the school money would come from the still unenacted sales tax. Rep. James W. Helme, Republican, Adrian, cast the lone dissenting vote.

The house also passed the highly controversial Schoenhals-Collins bill repealing the shooting preserve act. The law the bill would abolish, enacted in 1929, allows owners of private shooting preserves an extended season on pheasants and a bag equal to half the pheasants raised and released. Attempts by Rep. Haskell L. Nichols, Republican, Jackson, to amend the bill to exempt certain counties which wish to protect preserves failed.

The vote on the bill, which now goes to the senate, was 56 to 20.

With many members absent, the Strange-McNitt bill to create a state milk commission made up of the commissioners of agriculture and health and the dean of agriculture at Michigan State college, went down to defeat. It lacked nine votes of the required 51.

The adverse vote was reconsidered, however, and the bill was tabled for further consideration. The commission would have authority to regulate prices and marketing.

Four bills dealing with the healing arts were approved. One would allow osteopaths a board of registration favored by them and would break down an old barrier by admitting them to general hospital practice. Others set up boards acceptable to the chiropractors and chiropodists and change the status of the regular medical board. The Kirkwood bill, making it unnecessary for educational institutions to secure licenses to stage boxing contests was adopted.

An attempt to set a deadline for the introduction of bills was rejected. Rep. Gus T. Hartman, Republican, Houghton, offered a resolution fixing May 31 as the last day, but the house refused it on the ground a final adjournment date should be fixed first.

Roosevelt Used Clever Strategy On Relief Measure

BY KIRKE SIMPSON

Washington—When the $3,300,000,000 administration re-employment bill was plumped into the lap of congress, it contained one striking element left wholly for the moment to congressional initiative.

Congress was to be permitted to find ways and means of raising the $220,000,000 needed annually to pay interest and provide a sinking fund.

That plan was devised in response to warnings from party leaders on the bill that the general sales tax plan with which the White House was flirting to meet this essential part of the re-employment program probably would face determined opposition.

The leaders held that even in the absence of former Rep. LaGuardia of New York, spark-plug of the anti-sales tax revolution in the house last session, another uprising against that particular form of tax was to be expected.

So President Roosevelt made a gesture of confidence toward house leadership. He gave no suggestion as to where to find this new tax money, but merely said it must be found.

Coupled with that, however, went the intimation that if congress did not discover a suitable tax source in a reasonably short time Mr. Roosevelt would nudge it with a suggestion. And the plain implication was that he might suggest the sales tax.

Rainey Knows How

In launching the sales tax fight last session, Speaker Henry T. Rainey, then majority leader, described himself as about the most expert man alive at the art of tax-levying. He said he had learned that the main idea was "to get the most feathers with the fewest squawks from the goose."

That is what the house ways and means committee set out to do in digging up that $220,000,000 new revenue. And faced by the certainty of uproars from any particular group of tax payers whose pockets might be touched, there seemed a fair prospect that the committee might again come out with the sales tax as it did last session.

If President Roosevelt's "brain trust" was unable to think up any less painful yet effective way of financing the huge re-employment project, without doubt the maximum opus of the administration's emergency program, it is going to be mighty difficult for the house to do it.

And the administration gave consideration to the sales tax method only as a last resort.

HOUSE PASSES PUBLIC WORKS BILL, 324 TO 76

600,000 naval construction program, public buildings, rivers and harbors, flood control and for preservation of natural resources.

Already the administration is preparing to put the works under this legislation into effect. Brigadier-General Hugh Johnson, retired, is to become the administrator of the industrial section of the bill.

A public works administration will handle expenditures of the $3,300,000,000 fund. The loaning facilities and authority of the Reconstruction Corporation as far as self-liquidating projects are concerned are to be transferred to him. Meanwhile, the act reduced by $1,200,000,000 the borrowing power of the Reconstruction Corporation.

Sixty-four Democrats and 73 Republicans voted for the sales tax, while 228 Democrats, 32 Republicans and 5 Farmer-Laborites voted against.

Without any trouble, the Whittington amendment to transfer the existing three per cent electricity tax from the producer to the consumer was adopted along with a number of perfecting amendments.

Passage came after two days of debate. Democratic leaders yesterday managed to have a rule of procedure adopted by a margin of only nineteen votes. This rule prevented all but the ways and means committee members from offering amendments, and held off a deluge of proposals to change the bill.

Resisting control of their huge majority today, however, the Democratic leaders brought their full influence to bear against opponents.

SCHOOL BILL IS EXPLAINED

Escanaba District Can
Meet 1933-34 Budget
Under Plan

Tentative figures, compiled by Harold P. Lindsay, secretary of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, yesterday, disclosed that the Escanaba public schools would receive sufficient revenue to meet the demands of the 1933-34 budget, under the provisions of the $15,000,000 school aid bill now being considered by the state legislature.

The budget, presented by the Escanaba board of education to the county tax commission recently for purposes of allocation of the 15-mill tax levy, called for the raising of $211,829.40, the sum of $28,235 of this amount being for debt service, leaving $183,594.40 for general operating expenses. The school budget for 1933-34 called for $236,314 for general operating expenses and $28,175.50 for debt service, or a total of $264,489.90.

$3,300,000 for Equalization
House Bill No. 500 provides for the setting aside from the proceeds of the proposed sales tax of $15,000,000 for the schools, of which about $3,300,000 would be for equalization purposes, based on a three-mill tax levy. According to the present plan, this equalization would be prorated to come up to the so-called minimum program, based on a per student cost of $40 from the kindergarten to the sixth grade, and $65 from the seventh to the twelfth grade, inclusive. The remainder of the 15 million dollars, or $11,700,000, would be apportioned out to the school districts as a supplementary primary school fund, on the same basis of distribution as that of the present primary fund.

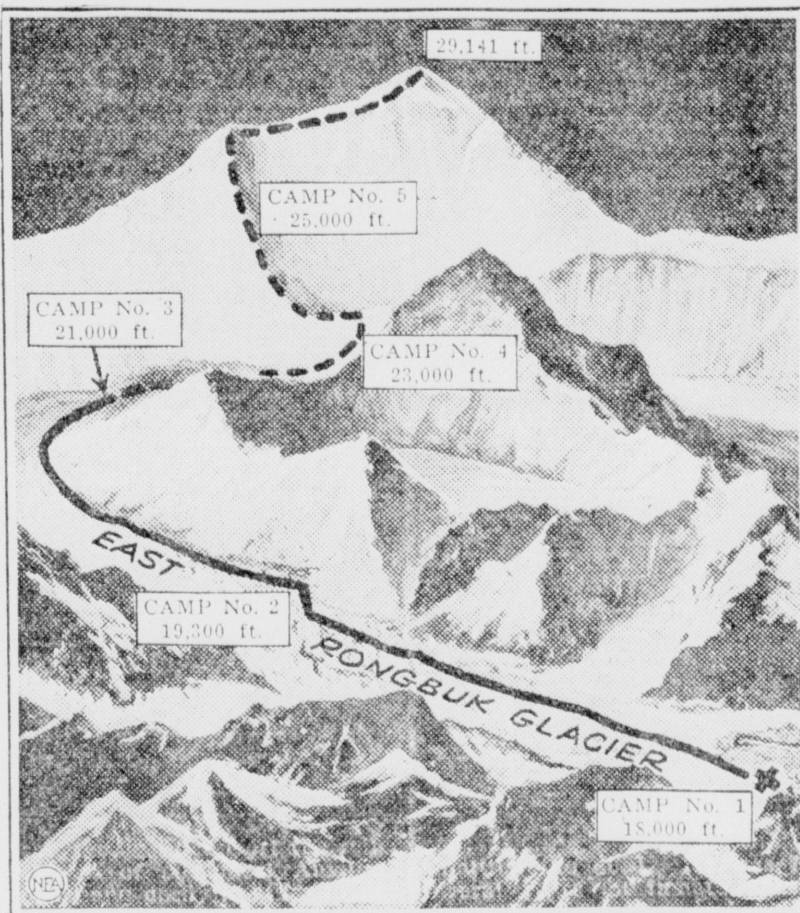

Estimated income to the Escanaba public schools, according to figures available, would be somewhat as follows:

The three-mill levy would bring in $25,332, based upon the 1932 city valuation of $8,444,217. The original primary school fund is expected to yield about 25 per cent less this year, which would be approximately $60,919. Tuition is estimated at $6,420; and the receipts of the supplementary primary fund would be about $36,532, giving a total income of $129,203.

In computing the minimum educational program for Escanaba, 1699 students in the lower grades multiplied by $40 gives $67,960, and 1086 in the upper grades multiplied by $65 gives $70,590, or a total of $138,550. The difference of $9,347 between the estimated income and the cost of a minimum program would be made up by the state from the $3,300,000 equalization fund.

The total of supplementary pri-

CLIMBING THE WORLD'S ROOF

The expedition attempting to reach the summit of Mount Everest—the "roof of the world"—is preparing for the final and most difficult part of its task. Camp No. 3 has just been established at 21,000 feet, 10 miles from base. The route between Camps 2 and 3 was difficult because of glacial towers and ice crevasses. Camp No. 4 must be reached by cutting steps in ice. This will be the last permanent location. Two other camps will be established in the assault on the 29,141-foot peak.

mary school fund and equalization fund aid, according to the tentative statistics, would be about $45,879, or $6,879 more than the Turner aid received this year.

This revenue, however, is based on a three-mill tax levy for purposes of equalization, whereas under the allocation of 8.9 mills to the Escanaba school district, an additional 5.9 mills may be levied for general school purposes, outside of debt service, which would bring in $49,821. This added to the minimum program cost of $138,550 makes available the sum of $188,371, as compared to the budget requirement of $183,594.40, not including the $28,235 for debt service during the 1933-34 fiscal year. Slightly more than three mills additional will have to be levied for debt service, making a total rate of about 12 mills as compared to 14.81 mills this year.

The school aid bill, known as the Thatcher-Sias measure, was approved by the committee of the whole in the house Thursday. After passage by the house, it will have to go to the senate.

Considerable satisfaction was expressed locally yesterday because of the fact that the measure contains a provision for an equalization fund, although the amount of relief to the poorer school districts is not as large as would have been desired. Under the bill's provisions, some of the school districts will obtain sufficient revenue, without having to levy beyond the prescribed three mills.

PRICE BOOSTS BEING PLANNED

Liberal Credit Will Be Proposed at Economic Parley

By JOSEPH E. SHARKEY
Geneva (P)—When the forthcoming world economic conference at London starts wrestling with "Prices," the second of the six general subjects on its agenda, it will be getting close to the problems of the average man throughout the world.

The economic and financial experts of the League of Nations who drew up the program for the big parley said flatly that something must be done to restore the balance between prices and costs of production.

They pointed out that as a rule costs of production fall more slowly than prices. This tends to make business unremunerative, bringing about a disorganization in industry and reduction in production, evidenced chiefly by increased unemployment.

Vicious Circle
The commission said that unemployment benefits do not halt the consequences, for the absence of earnings and the reduction in household incomes diminishes the purchasing power of the public.

Then the consequent restriction of sales, halts extensions in industrial plants, arrests activity in regard to new investments, causes unemployment among workers engaged in producing capital goods and creates a tendency to make savings idle.

It was estimated that the decline in production resulting from drops in prices had reduced the national incomes of some of the largest countries to less than 60 per cent of what they were three years ago.

Lower Costs—Lower Wages
The London conference will be told that one method of restoring the lost equilibrium between costs and prices is to reduce costs. But as a rule, the experts said, this was not possible unless the money rates of wages were cut.

Another method, they said, would be to bring about a rise in prices by limiting the supply of commodities. This is being studied here with reference to wheat by an international conference.

Liberal credit would have a beneficial effect on prices, the commission suggested, particularly in countries operating under the gold standard and having large monetary reserves.

Increased Credit Seen
Such a credit policy would call for low interest rates on short term obligations and also, in some cases, open market operations, tending to increase the supply of money and credit.

Moreover, the experts said, there should be as far as feasible a reduction of long-term interest rates by means of conversions—refinancing the loans—and other operations.

The commission found that in order for a liberal credit policy to have the desired effect on prices it would be necessary that a demand for credit should arise. Here the experts were optimistic.

Believes Expenditures Needed
They remarked that during the depression many industrial firms not only refrained from enlarging their plants but also postponed repairs. But this delay, they said, could not continue indefinitely.

The experts prophesied the opening of a big demand which has been accumulating. They said many firms had made financial provisions for this purpose on their depreciation accounts.

Similarly they were confident that consumers generally would want durable articles, like clothes, furniture and automobiles.

Suggest Measures for Confidence
In their discussion of "prices," the experts hammered home something to which they often refer. It is that the public must

FIRST ORE BOAT CLEARS FRIDAY

Iron River Mines Ship
More to Escanaba
Docks Today

Arriving at the Escanaba docks at 6 a. m., the A. E. Heekin, first ore boat of the season, cleared at 10 a. m. Friday with a cargo of about 9,000 tons of iron ore for Cleveland. The ore came from the M. A. Hanna mines at Iron River.

Another ore order was received during the week at the Hanna mines, and has been shipped to the C. & N. W. docks at Escanaba. This order is for 6,500 tons. A second steamer, the Butler, is due at the local docks Monday.

Officials at the Hanna mines expect that small orders similar to the two already received will be coming through from time to time during the season. None of the other mines in the west Iron River area has received orders as yet, but it is anticipated that some will be forwarded shortly.

Pressure Cooking Methods Displayed

A demonstration of particular interest to housewives will be held all next week at the Montgomery Ward store in Escanaba. At these demonstrations, home cooks will learn how, with modern steam pressure cooking, a whole meal can be thoroughly and tastily cooked in ten minutes' actual cooking time, against the usual methods taking several hours.

Pressure cooking cooks food in its own juices and retains the precious body-building vitamins and mineral salts that usually escape in ordinary cooking. Steam pressure cooking is recommended by health authorities, dieticians and home economic experts everywhere.

Housewives and students in cooking school classes are particularly invited to see the demonstration of cooking complete meals in ten minutes, and to taste the improved flavor of food when perfectly cooked with all the precious juices, vitamins and mineral salts retained.

Bathing Without Suits Is Banned

Although the summer bathing season is not far advanced as yet, the Delta county sheriff's department has already received reports of swimmers disrespecting themselves in streams without donning bathing suits.

The department is again calling attention to the fact that bathers must wear suits of some kind, no matter how isolated their swimming hole may be, and failure to do so may place the swimmers liable to arrest.

have confidence.

Finally the commission was convinced that sound international lending, which would put purchasing power in the hands of countries whose supply of domestic capital is limited, would have a beneficial effect on prices generally.

WANT US-41 PAVED

MEMONIEE county, through its newspaper mouthpiece, the Herald-Leader, is conducting an energetic campaign to obtain the paving of Highway US-41, south of Powers.

It is hoped that the highway might be paved as a part of the proposed $3,500,000 public works program, now being considered by Congress.

State highway department engineers have completed the survey of the proposed new route of US-41, and plans are now being drawn up. If funds are made available, this project should be decidedly worthwhile from the standpoint of tourist business. This heavily traveled highway is solid concrete all the way from Menominee to Chicago, with the exception of a few miles in Oconto county. Completion of the paving south of Powers would make the upper peninsula more inviting to tourists, who come as far north as Menominee.

Residents of this section are also hopeful that the paving of US-2, from Rapid River to Manistiquet, will be accomplished within the next couple years. The new route of this highway has been surveyed by the state highway department, and it is likely the grading of this stretch will be done sometime this year. If this road can be paved by 1934, it will be a source of much satisfaction to the thousands of motorists who travel in this section annually.

FISH LAW VIOLATORS
SOME fishermen have been boasting about the large rainbow trout they have been catching of late in Delta county streams. The glory that has been attached to some of the fishing exploits has been dimmed, however, by the disclosures that some of these huge fish were caught by spearing, an illegal method under the state fishing laws.

This unlawful practice appears to be common in other parts of the peninsula. Spearing of rainbow trout in the Carp river has aroused the indignation of the editorial writer of the Ironwood Globe, who is both an enthusiastic fisherman and ardent conservationist.

"It is difficult for the conservation department to combat this vicious type of violator," the Globe comments. "In the first place the department is handicapped by lack of man power and equipment, for substantial equipment is needed to visit some of the almost inaccessible places like the mouth of the Carp River and the Big Presque Isle. Secondly, the attitude of the courts is not sufficiently in sympathy with the department, in some instances. When this vicious type of violator is brought into court and found guilty, he should be given the stiffest penalty it is within the power of the court to impose."

EDITOR WHITE GIGGLES
WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE, America's most famous country editor, derives considerable satisfaction from the fact that legalization of 3.2 beer has failed to materially boost up the price of barley, as had been predicted freely by the wets.

White is the owner and editor of the Gazette, published in Emporia, in the ultra-dry state of Kansas. His remarks, undoubtedly, offered some cheer to his readers, who, in the last few years, cannot help but notice that the pendulum of Prohibition sentiment has been swinging toward the other direction in America.

But, because Editor White's editorials are always interesting, the Press is glad to reprint his breezy comments on the subject of beer. His editorial reads as follows:

"Corn and wheat prices are on the rise. So is the price of cotton. Hogs and cattle and wheat prices are booming. For all of which we rejoice with them that rejoice.

"But what single grain is it that has not enjoyed the general rise of farm prices; the grain for which we mourn? It is, dearly beloved, barley. And what is the leading use of barley, barring its need in mutton broth and barley soup? The leading use of barley, fellow countrymen, is for the purpose of making malt.

"And for what is malt used you ask? Malt is used for making beer, even 3.2 beer. And during the last campaign the farmers were promised that, when beer was legalized we should have a jump in the price of barley.

"What happened? Just this: There has been no increase in the consumption of malt. Some of the consumption has gone from home brew to 3.2 brew. How much no one knows. It makes no difference in the price of barley.

"Apparently we are drinking the same amount of beer. Some of it is unloaded from the trucks drawn by the brewer's big horses. Some of it, and we suspect more of it, is still kept in the basement and tended by mamma between while. The amount of beer consumed remains the same. The amount of malt consumed remains the same. The price of barley is stationary.

"Whereat we giggle, not in malice, not in anger, not even in sorrow, but just to be giggling!"

THE U. P. RELAYS

EXTENSIVE preparations are being made for the annual Upper Peninsula Relays, which will be held in Escanaba Saturday, June 3.

The relays have developed to be the outstanding track and field event in upper peninsula high school circles. Nationally known college stars have been brought here to give exhibitions of their skill, providing an incentive for the youthful athletes who witness their performances.

In the past, such sports notables as Hess, Warner, Alderman, and Metcalfe, have been the special attractions at the Relays. This year's event will be graced by the presence of Coach Charles Bachman, Assistant Director of Athletics Lyman L. Primodig, Clifford Liberty and Captain Bath of Michigan State College; Carroll Roark, Gene Bonzani and Dick Schram, star athletes of Marquette university. Incidentally, it was the appearance of Elton Hess at the Relays here a few years ago that inspired Schram to seek greater laurels in pole vaulting after leaving Escanaba high school.

The Relays contribute much toward making Escanaba a sports and business center. The event deserves all the possible support that can be given to it by the public.

DARLING FOOL

CHAPTER XXXII

As Miss Anstie said afterward, Arthur Mackenzie, who was the tall man of the theater adventure, was "such a perfect gentleman." Miss Anstie had been a bit disturbed after she and Monica had arrived at the hotel to realize they had driven across town "with a perfect stranger." And such terrible things happened in New York! But it had been the rain and the worry of getting her plain-colored wrap spotted which had plunged Miss Anstie into this daring.

And, after all, nothing had happened. Mr. Mackenzie, quietly assured, had told the chauffeur to drop them at the Splendobil and take him on to a place that sounded to Monica like "The Fire-fly."

She had read only that evening in the newspaper of a new night club of that name.

Cleverly, deftly Mr. Mackenzie had eluded from Miss Anstie the fact that he was sailing on the morrow. He had smilingly wished her a pleasant voyage, Monica, setting demurely in one corner of the huge car, had caught a flash in the man's dark eyes when Miss Anstie mentioned the name of the boat. Their first trip? But how delightful! He wished he might have the—or, the pleasure of showing Miss Corey and Miss O'Dare, his favorite haunts in Paris. They would love Paris, he said, in a quiet, assured voice that seemed to brook no contradiction.

The car slid under the dripping awning of the Splendobil and Mr. Mackenzie forestalled the action of the chauffeur in helping the ladies to alight. A tall, imposing figure in his gleaming black and white, he stood there. But it had been a real pleasure, he was assuring them. He had been charmed. He gave Monica's slim gloved hand a quick pressure. Her fingers tingled afterward.

"Have you got all your things in order?" Miss Anstie was nervous. They would have to be up early, she told Monica. One of her pet horrors was the thought of missing a train of a boat. "I should sleep a wink," she prosed. But later Monica heard her deep and quiet breathing as she herself lay wide-eyed, listening to the rain on the windows.

The city lay below them, an only partially somnolent beast. The hum of traffic, of taxicabs skidding along the gleaming pavements, the hasty screech of brakes reached her ears. Why had she liked Arthur Mackenzie quickly, on sight she wondered? Was it because he reminded her of Charles? He wasn't the least bit like him, really. Why he must be 40! But he was nice. There was something definitely attractive about this assured man of the world.

"He's the sort who gets what he wants, always," thought the girl shrewdly. It must be wonderful to go about with a man like that, to be petted, taken care of as if you were a valuable piece of porcelain. Ray would love New York, love the kind of life Monica had had a glimpse of to-night. Motor doors opening and shutting, rich fabrics, the scent of costly, elusive perfumes on the air.

HOW SHALL WE START?

How shall we start the day?
Shall it be clouded?
For it's for us to say—
Shall it be crowded
With things that used to be
That hover o'er us,
Until we cannot see
The road before us?

How shall we start the day?

Shall mists surround us
That hide the brighter way?
We might have found us
Shall we look up the slope
Of this tomorrow,
Or turn aside from hope
To walk with sorrow?

How shall we start the day?

The sun now-risen?
Or shall some memory gray
The soul imprison?
The sun is in the sky,
The day adorning,
Yet always you and I
Make our own morning.

ROD LICENSES SELL FOR 50c

June 25 Set as Date for Enforcement of
New Regulations

The Michigan State Legislature has given immediate effect to the General Rod License. This action, coming after the signing of the law by the Governor, was based upon an opinion of the attorney general.

Previously, the Department of Conservation had been instructed to apply the new license fee of fifty cents only to trout fishermen during the 1933 season. However, under the present ruling every resident of the state over 18 years of age must possess a license to fish for any species in the inland waters.

Delay Expected
However, according to Director George R. Hagarth, it will take several days to get the license forms in the hands of the department's 1,800 dealers and it will be some time before the new requirements will become generally known.

The opening of the general fishing season June 25th has been set as the tentative date when strict enforcement of the general rod license provisions will go into effect.

"The Department intends to be as considerate as possible," Director Hagarth said today, "but we expect that everyone will have purchased his or her license before the fishing season opens in earnest June 25. We consider this policy only fair since in spite of much publicity it will take several weeks to have the new provisions of this law generally familiar to the hundreds of thousands of fishermen in this state."

Under the General Rod License law now in effect all residents of the state over 18 years of age are required to buy a license costing 50c and good for the calendar year to fish in the inland waters for any species in the manner and seasons provided by law. However, the wife of a resident licensee will be issued a permit entitling her to fish without additional charge.

Only One Needed
All trout licenses purchased this year may also be used as a general fishing license, and holders of these licenses do not need to obtain any additional permit to fish for any species during the year 1933.

The owners, lessees or occupants of any enclosed land or any member of their family actually living there may fish without a license from waters wholly within the limits of the land at any time during the open seasons.

All non-residents are now being charged the new rate for fishing in Michigan's inland waters. No license is necessary for either residents or non-residents for fishing in Great Lakes waters adjoining this state.

A non-resident is classed as anyone who has not resided in the state for six consecutive months immediately preceding his application for a fishing license. The fee for a non-resident annual fishing license is $2 but the wife of such a license holder may obtain a similar license for 50c by exhibiting her husband's unexpired license. Non-residents under the new law, may obtain a temporary fishing license good for ten days from date of issue for $1 and wives of such licensees may obtain a similar license for 50c. Non-resident licensees will be permitted to take or ship out of the state one day's legal catch of fish.

FIVE COMPLETE 1ST AID COURSE

Red Cross Safety Work
Progressing, Says
McIntyre

Five students, who have been taking the Red Cross' standard first aid course during the last several weeks, passed their final examinations Thursday evening. D. B. McIntyre, chairman of the first aid committee of the Delta county chapter of the American Red Cross, announced yesterday.

They are: Jack Floyd, Joel Olson, Ewald Nelson, William McClellan and George Nelson. The men took their training course under the supervision of Chairman McIntyre and Dr. George C. Bartley.

Beginning June 2, they will enroll for the advanced course in first aid, which will qualify them as instructors. Then about Sept. 1, they will commence to conduct classes of approximately 10 students each, selected from the personnel of the various industries in the county and the Boy Scout organization.

"This first aid work is not in any way meant to take the place of a doctor," Chairman McIntyre explained yesterday. "It is intended merely for protecting the life of an accident victim, or helping to prevent or lessen the possibility of infection, until a doctor can be reached. First aid simply fills the gap between the time the accident occurs and the physician arrives."

Artificial Respiration
The five, who passed the standard first aid course examinations, are also qualified to apply artificial respiration methods in the event of drowning, asphyxiation by gas, and in various cases of shock. Chairman McIntyre stated that Red Cross charts, describing practical respiratory methods, and others showing points at which pressure should be applied to stop bleeding, will be distributed to industrial plants and other parts of the county.

Joel Olson, who has served as life guard at the Escanaba beach, has also completed the Red Cross course in life saving, and is qualified to instruct classes in this phase of safety work. It is undetermined, as yet, whether a life guard will be employed this season.

Federal Forestry Army Kept Busy in Peninsula

Emergency conservation corps workers are expected to plant at least 15,000 acres in upper Michigan national forests this season. In addition to the building of telephone lines, truck trails, firelines, firebreaks and other improvements of recreational and utility nature on public campgrounds. This estimate comes from the office of R. B. McKenna, forest supervisor in the peninsula district, who has been relieving many inquiries relative to the type and quantity of forestry work scheduled for the present year.

Briefly, the organization is as follows: The Ottawa, Marquette and Haverth National Forests are under the direct supervision of Forest Rangers Hendee, Brandner and Ferrari respectively. Each of these Rangers has direct charge of two Emergency Conservation camps of approximately 200 men each. Each camp is being handled by a camp superintendent who has under him as facilitating personnel from four to six technically trained foresters and from four to seven construction foremen. The technical foresters handle the crews working on cultural, planting and other technical phases of the work. The construction foremen take charge of crews constructing truck trails, telephone lines, firelines, firebreaks, lookout towers, buildings, truck trails and hazard reduction activities.

As to the volume of work, it is contemplated that the following work will be completed under the Emergency Conservation appropriation: About 70 miles of metallic telephone line; 200 miles of truck trails and some 400 miles of firelines and firebreaks. It is planned to erect three lookout towers as well as eight small and medium size cabins. It is also planned to build a large warehouse on each of the forests as well as about fifty small structures for recreational use on various public campgrounds. The development of 12 public campgrounds fully equipped with tables, wells and stoves or fireplaces is also included in the program. It is planned to develop at least one emergency airplane landing field on each forest.

The acreage to be planted during the present year will depend entirely on the amount of stock which may be available, but it is fully expected that we will plant at least 15,000 acres on the Upper Michigan Forests. The plan is to plant largely white pine, Norway pine and white spruce, but provision is being made for the planting of considerable jack pine stock on sites which are not satisfactory for the planting of the other species mentioned.

Cultural work will be carried on in approximately 80,000 acres of government owned land. This will include thinning, sanitation cutting, weeding, release cutting, and salvage cutting in present stands of reproduction, saplings and poles.

If it is possible to continue this work for several months the Upper Michigan Forests will be placed in a highly productive state and the scientific practice of forestry will be well established. The objective for all of our cultural work will be the placing of every acre of the stand in the best possible condition for maximum production of timber of the best species and of the best quality.

Since the Emergency Conservation Corps members have been on the three Upper Michigan National Forests, about four hundred acres have been planted, preliminary road surveys have been run on several proposed truck trails and the crews have been actively engaged in constructing firelines and firebreaks and in eliminating dangerous hazard conditions. Telephone line construction crews are busy on the three forests. An airplane landing field is being constructed near Sidnaw and a crew of Conservation Corps members is being used on this project.

Escanaba Doctors Attend Meetings

The Escanaba medical profession was represented at two important meetings held during the past several days.

Dr. John J. Walsh and Dr. G. W. Moll were in attendance at the meeting of the Green Bay Academy of Medicine, held May 29, at which Dr. Carl Meyer, chief surgeon of Cook County hospital, and surgeon in chief on the Carmack case, read a paper on "Acute Appendicitis."

Dr. A. Carlton and Dr. Walsh also attended the Montmorency County medical meeting held Thursday evening. Dr. Kilbas of the Green Bay Clinic, was the speaker of the meeting, reading a paper on "Blood Diseases."

Grand Hotel Opens Season July First On Mackinac Island

The Grand hotel at Mackinac Island, said to be the largest resort hotel on the continent, will open for the season July 1. Wm. S. Woodfill is owner and manager.

A contract has been given Mandel Brothers of Chicago for a complete renewal of the hotel furnishings. The Grand can accommodate 1,500 guests. A striking feature of the exterior of the building is a porch as long as three average city blocks and with a three-story roof. Boat lines plying from Detroit and the east to Chicago this season will sell all-expense tickets which include a stay of two days or more at the Grand.

Dog License Fee Lowered if Paid Before June 1st

Before taking action on the collection of annual dog license fees the Escanaba police department is awaiting definite information from Lansing on the application of the bill signed by the governor recently, providing for a reduction in the amount of the dog license levies. The information has been asked by the city attorney's office.

Under the provisions of the new Morrison bill, dog licenses applied for before June 1 will cost $1 for male or unsexed dogs and $2 for females. After that date the fee doubles. The kennel license is placed at $1.50 for ten dogs or less and $15 for over that number. An additional fee of $5 will be charged for kennel licenses applied for after June 1. County boards of supervisors may reduce the fees if the amount is sufficient to pay the damage caused by dogs.

Prof. Rice Taking Los Angeles Job

An item of interest to Escanaba residents is the announcement of the resignation of Joseph F. Rice as professor of speech and director of dramatics at Loyola University, Chicago.

Prof. Rice is leaving shortly to accept a similar position at Loyola University, Los Angeles. He is a former Escanaba high school student and a son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Rice, former Escanaba residents, who are now making their home in California.

Poppies Today
Will Honor the World War Dead

Today America will pay honor to its World War dead. Millions of Americans in every part of the country will wear bright red poppies to show that they still remember and are grateful for the services of those men who gave their lives in defense of the country fifteen years ago. Here in Escanaba the women of the Cloverland Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary will distribute memorial poppies in all parts of the city throughout the day.

Preparations for Poppy Day were completed the first of the week by the local Auxiliary women. A large corps of volunteer workers are ready to take the streets early this morning with the city's share of the memorial poppies. Women from other organizations have offered their help to the Auxiliary and are enrolled on the Auxiliary's poppy squads. School girls will distribute poppies by the side of grey-haired Gold Star Mothers whose sons died among the poppies in France. The women of the city will be united in a patriotic effort as they were in the World War days.

The poppies which the Auxiliary will distribute today have been made by disabled World War veterans working under Auxiliary supervision at Veteran's Hospital, Battle Creek, Mich. The employment that the Auxiliary has been able to give these men has helped them provide food and fuel for their families during the period when they could not possibly have found other employment. How soon the poppy making can be started again depends on the public response to today's sale.

The Auxiliary will distribute its poppies on a voluntary contribution basis. Poppies will be given in return for contributions of any size. The individual is able to make. None of the American Legion Auxiliary workers, who will be easily identified by badges, will receive any compensation for her services. All contributions will be used for the relief and rehabilitation of disabled veterans and their families.

Boy Scouts and volunteers from the junior and senior high schools and St. Anne's school will assist in the sale of the poppies.

The girls' groups are:

Theatres

"The Outsider" and "Hypnotized" are the titles of the double feature program to be shown again at the Delft today.

"The Outsider," an engrossing drama enacted with sympathy and understanding by a flawless cast and directed with an acute perception of camera and microphone values, was unveiled last night at the Delft Theatre. The picture is a filmization of the play in which Katharine Cornell created one of her outstanding roles, and takes its title from the fact that its two principal characters are "outsiders" in relation to the rest of the world.

Moran and Mack, those two headmen of hilarity, stage a triumphant return to the screen in Mack Sennett's feature-length laughmaker, "Hypnotized." Famous on the radio, stage and screen, as well as through the medium of their phonograph records, "The Two Black Crows" prove welcome additions to the screen's roster of expert comics. As nursemaids to the elephants in O'Brien & Shapiro's big circus, their droll humor supplied a bargain in laughs to yesterday's audience.

Produced and directed by Mack Sennett, whose excursions into the field of full-length feature comedies are all too rare, "Hypnotized" has the universal appeal that has characterized this producer's comedies for many years. There's fun for all the family in "Hypnotized," and although Sennett has ceased throwing custard pies, there's plenty of slapstick "gags" and "water-in-the-face" to evoke shrieks of delight from movie goers.

Serve Fruits With Meat In Warm Weather

As the weather grows warmer, our meals naturally grow lighter and meat loses much of its appeal. However, we must continue to serve some meat dishes to maintain a balanced diet. On this account unusual methods of preparation are a decided help in meal planning.

Tradition has taught us to serve certain fruit sauces with certain meats but modern progressiveness has gone further and combined fresh or dried or canned fruits with meats in cooked dishes. Sometimes just the juice is used to give a piquant flavor. Again the whole fruit is drained from its juice and broiled or grilled and used as a border. Sometimes the fruit is chopped and combined with the meat and in a loaf or casserole dish.

Valuable in Diet

Dietetically these fruit and meat combinations are very much worth while. The acid of the fruit acts upon the fat particles, breaking them up and making them easier to digest. The mineral salts of the fruits are valuable in sustaining the balance of a meal rich in protein and in counteracting the effects of meat in the diet.

There are so many delicious ways of serving fruit with meat that one might almost go on indefinitely mentioning them. Ham and pineapple is not unusual, but Frenched pork tenderloins with apricots, lamb chops with orange slices, roast beef with browned pears, roast pork with raisins, veal and raisin loaf with bananas, hamburger steak with broiled

Avoid Sentiment

Many a housewife buys milk from a milkman or from a dairy because "he is a nice man" or because "he needs the business," or for other personal reasons rather than from a knowledge or study of what makes up milk quality or what kind she should buy for the family. It should be safe milk always—Be sure it's pasteurized milk—Pasteurized milk is the best milk there is.

World Economic Peace Is Goal of Conference

BY JOSEPH E. SHARKEY

Geneva (AP)—Real economic peace, achieved by sacrificial action by each of the fifty or more nations involved, is the thesis which experts of the League of Nations sounded for the world economic and monetary conference, due to assemble in London June 12 with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of England as chairman.

Unless such a pact is evolved at Great Britain's capital, the experts have warned that the world social order hardly can survive.

A World of Peril
In presenting the program for the gathering, they painted a picture of a world in dire peril. In that portrait are such figures as these:

More than 30,000,000 unemployed in the world, willing to do while their dependents, by the of millions, face bitter poverty.

A big decline in commodity prices, which has made business unremunerative and has disorganized world markets.

An undesirable accumulation of stocks of agricultural products and raw materials for industry waiting vainly for buyers.

A drastic curtailment of industrial production.

A disastrous drop in the volume of world trade with some countries even finding that the value of their exports has fallen below the amounts required to pay interest on foreign debts.

Import prohibitions and quotas, embargoes on exports and restrictions on the exchange of money between countries, throttling business enterprise and individual initiative.

The Program
A definite program aimed at remedying these conditions has been drawn up. Since the conference is under the auspices of the League of Nations, this agenda probably will be offered at the opening session by Joseph Avenol of France who succeeds Sir Eric Drummond as secretary general of the league.

It contains these general divisions:

1. Monetary and credit policy.
2. Prices.
3. Resumption of the movement of capital.
4. Restrictions on international trade.
5. Tariffs and trade treaties.
6. Organized control of production and trade.

The problem of inter-governmental debts was not included in the program because the framers steered clear of political subjects. But they went on record as advocating a settlement of this question because "if unsettled, the debts will remain an insuperable barrier to economic and financial reconstruction."

Want World Monetary Standard
The problem makers said that the objective in the field of monetary and credit policy, the first of the big divisions of the conference, must be an international monetary standard to which the countries which have abandoned the gold standard can adhere confidently.

The United States, Great Britain, Japan, the Scandinavian countries and others have stopped using the yardstick of gold. France, Switzerland, Belgium and Holland have been standing firm for the yellow metal. The experts argue that some common measuring tool must be found by which to calculate values.

Moreover, they added, before the gold standard could be restored to its former position measures would have to be taken to build up the reserve of the countries whose supply has fallen to an adequate position.

They think a settlement of the inter-governmental debts problem would be especially helpful.

Urges Careful Fiscal Policy
Countries should balance their budgets, they said, and avoid attempts to meet government deficits by "inflationary increases in note circulation."

The commission suggested too that countries still on the gold standard should liberalize their credit policies, allowing gold to flow more freely and giving freedom to outward capital movements so as to facilitate sound foreign investments.

Of bimetalism the experts were frankly dubious.

Wanted More Time
A committee from Fort Hunt had come up to ask a day or two of grace. There had been so much time lost on factional disputing within the ranks of the marchers that time had been lost on convention business, it was explained.

It developed that Mr. Howe was not going to be arbitrary about it. The tents and chow guns at Fort Hunt would be available a bit beyond the originally fixed departure date.

Why not? What had loomed as a force of 8,000 or 9,000 marchers had dwindled in fact to some 1,300. Maybe the expectation of the organizers of the hike were too optimistic; or maybe it was just the bland way of Mr. Howe that took the matter off the front pages so quickly.

For whatever reason, the news value of the 1933 bonus march fell swiftly. It was not front page stuff in even Washington papers after the first day or two. Nor was it expected to be on demobilization day.

Howe's Idea
For Mr. Howe is also field marshal of the president's Civilian Conservation Corps, the reforestation forces. And that fact gave him an idea.

"Bonuses" who clung to their happy home at Fort Hunt were to find it strangely changed. It became an army reconditioning camp for forest workers over night. The veterans are eligible for enlistment.

"If you stay, you work," was Mr. Howe's demobilization slogan.

They were accompanied on their return home by Mrs. Thompson's sister, Miss Barbara Campbell.

Miss Genevieve Leech of Lakefield visited in town Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Bussan Frytag and Mrs. Fred Newman.

Leslie Beal who visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Lindsay has returned to his home in Marquette.

After spending several weeks' in Lakefield at the home of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Root, Mrs. Hannah Carroll has returned to her home here.

PLANS FINISHED

Attorney Glenn Jackson of Gladstone, to Deliver Address

Splendid plans have been made by the Manistique Post of the American Legion for a fitting observance of Memorial Day here next Tuesday. The Legion committee in charge, headed by Dr. A. R. Tucker, has secured the services of Attorney Glen Jackson, of Gladstone, as the speaker for the occasion.

Invitations are being extended to the Legion Auxiliary members, Spanish American War Veterans, the Boy Scouts (Girl Scouts), and the general public to enroll in the parade which will start from the Legion Memorial cottage at ten o'clock. The line of march will be north on Maple avenue to East Elk street, and then will proceed west to the intersection of River street where short services will be held at the soldiers' and sailors' monument. Following the service the procession will go to Lakeview cemetery where Attorney Jackson will deliver his address.

Legion members and all ex-service men are requested to meet at the Legion cottage at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday morning where the parade will be formed. Members of the firing squad however, are asked to report at 9 o'clock and proceed to the parade will march to Fairview cemetery where they will fire a volley of shots.

As Memorial Day has been proclaimed a national holiday, all business places in the city will be closed. Since all formal observance has been planned for the morning, it is expected that a large gathering will attend the functions.

Students Hear Talk
On Methods Used In Capturing Criminals

Manistique high school students heard a most illuminating and interesting address Thursday afternoon on the work of the state police, given by Corporal Ray Sullivan, of East Lansing. Corporal Sullivan told of the methods used by the Michigan state police in apprehending criminals, explaining the effectiveness of the radio through the dispatching of messages, the workings of the fingerprint identification bureau, and the weapons employed in the capture of desperadoes. He carried with him an interesting exhibit, including gas masks, bombs which had been seized, flares, tear gas, and weapons taken from criminals.

Displaying a small bottle of tear gas, Corporal Sullivan declared that it would drive everyone out of the building if it were all released. He experimented with it by putting a drop on a piece of cloth and allowing several students to smell the sharp penetrating odor.

Michigan has the second best record in the country in the apprehension of bank robbers. Corporal Sullivan stated, and also ranks second in the size of the fingerprint identification bureau being exceeded only by the bureau at Washington, D. C.

HONOR PUPILS HEAR NORTON

Old Qualities Are Still Necessary, Says Daily Press Publisher

The old qualities are still necessary, is the opinion of John P. Norton, editor of the Escanaba Daily Press, in the address of the evening at the annual Bohn honor banquet held in Newberry Thursday night. Mr. Norton, coming here on the invitation of the host, Dr. P. Bohn, gave the concluding address of an annual program before 167 honor students of the high school, members of the board of education and faculty.

"The people of the small towns, the Newberrys and the Escanabas of the land, are the fortunate ones," Mr. Norton believes. "In the small towns we know each other and have an understanding and sympathy with each other not to be found in the large centers. In one other place but in a small town could a janitor be so honored as our fine man, Mike Lyyski, is being honored tonight. The big places are apt to foster false ideals and hold up false standards. Mike, who has found his great happiness in his work of a quarter of a century of service, and in going home at night to his wife, knows true standards."

The speaker then went on to tell his interested audience that the basic truths of character, honor and service will still hold, will in fact be more important than ever, in the "new deal" into which we have just been entering. He called upon the schools to teach straight individual thinking on all individual problems rather than to make another's word as to the success or failure of men and of movements. Mr. Norton's talk was thoughtful and forceful and was greatly enjoyed.

Miss Esther Ojala, principal of the grade school, talked on the High School, What the Elementary School Makes It. Miss Ojala said that the grades took the child fresh from the home and worked with the native and natural material. The school was interested in finding out each child's possibilities and abilities and could do no more with them than was natural. The elementary school has all of the children of all of the people and is therefore the most democratic organization in the world. The high school should go on with the work where the grades leave off and should be as interested in turning out butchers, bakers and candlestick makers as they are in making college entrants.

Attorney A. L. Sayles was the hostmaster and presided in his happy manner. Mrs. Herman Norton gave the invocation. Arvid Nelson led the singing with the Bystron at the piano. Ethel Johnson gave a brief talk in appreciation to Dr. and Mrs. Bohn at this annual event. Lawrence Brown gave the toast to Mr. Lyyski, thanking the janitor for his kindly consideration, his faithful service, and his fine demonstration of citizenship. Mr. Lyyski responded briefly and easily and was presented with a large bouquet of flowers by Mrs. Lyyski who was not present.

The "colored waiters," Messrs. Ober, Pike, West, Gorneli and Oster, gave a clever skit and several songs and musical numbers. Herman Kuert, president of the board of education, spoke in appreciation of "Our Three Young Men of the Faculty" receiving Miss Anna Mulvaney, W. T. Murray and Mr. Lyyski, who from

Washington News Column

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—Mr. J. P. Morgan, who is commonly regarded as the chief power behind the American scene and who doesn't pay any income tax, was just like a jolly, gruff old "Papa Bear" out of a fairy tale book.

Pulled from his seclusion by the Senate banking committee, and exposed to public view for nearly the first time, this almost legendary figure of international finance appeared not as a sinister ogre but as a big, bulky, merry old gentleman who didn't know that his famous firm had shown a loss of $21,000,000 almost overnight.

The tradition that Morgan was a shy, retiring fellow who would shiver and cringe in the limelight was blown higher than a kite as he grinned, chuckled and sometimes joked with the committee members and the numerous Morgan partners who flanked him. You'd have thought he wished the Senate had one of these Morgan investigations every week.

"Trader's Eyes" He towers when he stands and must weigh nearly 250 pounds. His eyebrows are black and bushy, contrasting mustache and bald pate on his massive head. His nose is a splendid specimen of physical development.

He has wide, squinting eyes with small pupils. If it weren't for those eyes he could don a white apron and play admirably the part of a German butcher or bartender.

"Trader's eyes," whispered a celebrated Jewish lawyer, "He looks like one of our fellows."

No frock coat for Morgan. He wore a blue business suit with widely spaced pencil stripes, nose glasses on a cord for reading, a rope watch chain across his vest, a stiff and pointed collar, a dark blue necktie and a small pearl stickpin.

Become Friendly At the beginning his face was quizzical and his manner one of vague, unexcited amusement. But he warmed up and eventually became chummy with everyone nearby, including senators. The delighted press caused his great face to fold up into huge wrinkles of merriment. By the end of the day he was even shaking hands—as if in delight with utter strangers who greeted him as he was ushered from the committee room.

He didn't forget himself to the point of making any bad slips. But his only sign of perturbation on the first day of the examination was when, as Committee Counsel Ferdinand Pecora was pressing the issue of what he did and didn't know about the House of Morgan's income tax returns, he waved his hands fretfully as if fighting off mosquitoes and exclaimed resentfully: "I don't want to discuss it."

British Accent He has a slight touch of British accent, which may have come from eight years of living in England.

It was Morgan who kept urging that his office manager be called to testify about the income tax returns, until he finally had his way. Then he crouched forward, right behind the witness, so as not to miss a word of the story, which included an explanation of the fact that Morgan partners haven't been paying income taxes.

During frequent committee sittings he would turn to some of his partners for a brief huddle over something that must have been funny because you could see four or five partners all grinning at once.

A short program was given following which a hunt was made for the hidden gifts, Miss Johnson making the search. Directions were contained in a poem which was read by one of the guests. Included in the program was a piano duet by Mrs. Charles Green and Mrs. William Nelson, a reading by Mrs. Russell Griffiths, and a vocal solo by Mrs. J. P. Strind. THEATRES

Are you afraid of the Dark? Well if you are you better not see "The Old Dark House," which is advertised to open at the Rialto Theatre today only. Dark is its middle name. And it has that same Karloff who scared all the little children in "Frankenstein."

The story is by J. B. Priestly who has been scaring folks for 10 these many years. And lastly it was made by James Whale, who directed "Journey's End" and "Frankenstein."

But what about this "Dark" business anyway? The strange thing about being afraid of the dark doesn't keep us out of it and doesn't keep us from enjoying it, so maybe you better go to see it anyway.

11 P. M. Preview "The Eagle and The Hawk," the story of two war-time flyers who became heroes under the stimulus of their personal hatred for each other, has been booked for the Rialto Theatre, where it will open tonight at the 11 p. m. preview. Fredric March and Cary Grant play the featured roles with Carole Lombard and Jack Oakie at the head of the supporting cast.

POPPIES WILL BE WORN TODAY

Local Legion Auxiliary to Conduct Sale in Gladstone

Today America will honor its World War dead and millions of Americans in every part of the country will wear bright red poppies to show that they still remember and are grateful for the services of those men who gave their lives in defense of this country fifteen years ago. Here in Gladstone women of the local American Legion Auxiliary and others will distribute memorial poppies throughout the day.

Preparations for Poppy Day have been completed by the local Auxiliary and a large number of volunteer workers are ready to take the streets this morning with the little flowers.

The poppies which will be distributed here today have been made by disabled World War veterans and the employment has been the means of helping these men provide food and fuel for their families during a period when they could not possibly have found other employment. How soon the poppy making can be started again depends on the public response to today's sale.

The flowers will be distributed on a voluntary contribution basis and a poppy will be given in return for a contribution of any size the individual is able to make. None of the Auxiliary workers will receive any compensation for her services. All contributions will be used for the relief and rehabilitation of disabled veterans and their families.

CASE SETTLED BY COMPROMISE

Charges Against Osier Man Dismissed Following Hearing

Following hearing in the case of Selma Lancoeur, Osier, charged with use of indecent and threatening language, yesterday morning before Justice of Peace A. D. Algaire, a compromise was effected between the defendant and complainant and the case was dismissed by the court.

The arrest followed some friction between Lancoeur and several neighbors in the north county settlement which culminated last Sunday with the alleged verbal assault by Lancoeur.

At the hearing it was revealed that the plaintiff had been using a road, the only means of access to his home, which crossed Lancoeur's property and had done nothing to keep it in repair.

A compromise was made when Lancoeur agreed to allow use of the road upon agreement that those using it aided in keeping the right-of-way in shape.

Local Teams Enter Invitational Meet Today

ESKYMOS ARE PICKED TO WIN

Annual Peninsula Meet to Be Held at Iron Mountain

Iron Mountain, May 26 (Special)—The 1933 upper peninsula invitational high school track and field meet will be held tomorrow at the high school stadium, with eight entries listed.

Qualifying rounds will start at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning with the championship events listed to get under way at 2 o'clock.

School officials were unable to get today what events would be held in the qualifying round as they will not know until tomorrow, when the teams arrive, in what events the entries will be large enough to necessitate preliminary heats.

Twelve events will be listed. They are the 100 and 200 yard dashes, the 440, 880 and mile runs. Preliminary heats in the 100 yard dash events are almost certain.

The two hurdle contests, the 120 high and 220 lows, usually demand preliminary heats, but it may be the last tomorrow will be small enough to run off the entire field in the finals.

The two jumps, the pole vault, not and half mile relay complete today's schedule.

In addition to Iron Mountain, the entertaining school, other entries are Menominee, Manistique, Escanaba, Kingsford, Wakefield, St. Joseph and Alpha. Escanaba has been installed as the favorite.

John Schwei will be referee of the meet and Norman Bartholomew starter. Other officials will be taken from members of the high school faculties in the community.

Athletes from the Escanaba and St. Joseph high schools will leave here this morning for Iron Mountain where they will compete in the invitational track meet here this afternoon. Trials in some of the events will be run off this morning with finals at 1:30 P. M. (2:30 E. S. T.) this afternoon.

Escanaba, seeking the team title, will have men entered in 12 events in an effort to pile up a point for top honors.

St. Joseph will be represented in each of the events except the mile run and high jump.

The sprint duels between Carl of Escanaba and Beaumier of St. Joseph are expected to be re-run at Iron Mountain today.

Beumier ripped the Escanaba dash in both the 100 and 220 yard dashes last week by narrow margins.

Giants Clip Full Game Off Pirate's Lead With Victory

Pittsburgh, May 26 (AP)—The New York Giants clipped a game off Pittsburgh's lead in the National league pennant chase today, winning the Pirates' margin to 10-5.

A circus catch by Shortstop John Flannery saved the game in the fifth, but the Pirates, with two runs in and the bases jammed, Ryan leaped high in the air and speared Floyd Vaughan's drive for the third out.

Score by innings: New York 6-0-0-0-10-5-12-1. Pittsburgh 10-2-0-0-0-5-12-2. (Pittsburgh, Bell and Manasco; Maine, Harris and Padden.)

Mahey Hits Homer And Reds Win 3-2

Cincinnati, May 27 (AP)—Chick Mahey stepped up to the plate with a score tied at 2-2 and none out in the ninth inning and smashed in Mungo's second pitch over a left field fence for a home run that gave the Reds a 3 to 2 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers day.

Score by innings: Cincinnati 2-0-0-0-0-2-7-9. Brooklyn 0-0-0-0-0-1-3-7-1. (Clark, Mungo and Lopez; Johnson and Manion.)

Ubl Doesn't Plan To Quit Football

Minneapolis (AP)—Quitting football is the least of the present thoughts of Myron Ubl, husky University of Minnesota back whose life was despoiled of for several weeks last fall.

Ubl fractured his breast bone during the 1932 pre-season workouts. He did not report the injury promptly, and the result was pneumonia with complications.

ANOTHER SPILL DURING TRIALS

Five More Drivers Qualify for Memorial Day Race

Indianapolis, May 26 (AP)—It was another day of thrills with one spill at the Indianapolis motor speedway today as five more drivers qualified their cars for next Tuesday's 500-mile race, increasing the field to 29.

Traveling at 102 miles an hour, the speedster driven by Virgil Livengood of Hammond, Ind., crashed head-on into the guard rail on the inner edge of the track, but the pilot and Laddie Erban, riding mechanic, also of Hammond, miraculously escaped injury.

The racer went into a spin in the last turn leading into the home stretch, hit the wooden guard rail, ripped away some forty feet of it, and tossed Livengood and Erban high into the air. Both men landed on their feet some distance from the car, which remained upright.

Among today's qualifiers was Raoul Rignati of Buenos Aires, the only foreign entrant in the race, who averaged 108.981 miles per hour.

Other qualifiers today were: Kelly Pettito, Los Angeles; Gene Haunstein, of Detroit; Wesley Crawford, Indianapolis, and Sam Palmer, of Los Angeles.

Pettito made the best speed of the day, averaging 113.637 miles per hour. Haunstein turned the trick at 107.593 miles per hour.

Twelve places remain to be filled Saturday and Sunday.

Boxing

May 26 (AP)—Ernie Maurer, a comparatively new comer to professional ranks, was given drawn with Midget Wolgast, recognized by the New York boxing commission as world flyweight champion, at the end of a ten and eight fight tonight. The title is not at stake.

The decision was unpopular. Any ringsters concurring in the belief that Wolgast had won every round, and Referee "Doc" Casey said took cognizance of Maurer's "blinking" in ruling the bout a draw. Maurer, who is from Boston, weighed 118; Wolgast, who is from Philadelphia, 115.

When Young Carmen, San Jose prize ring veteran steps into the ring he is sure of at least ten points—his wife and nine children.

DETROIT HALTS MACK'S STRING

Rowe Beats Athletics by 10-1 to End Seven Game Streak

Philadelphia, May 26 (AP)—While his mates belabored three Philadelphia pitchers for 14 hits, Schoolboy Rowe, Detroit Tiger recruit pitcher, held the Athletics to six hits and a lone run to even the series here today. The Tigers' 10 to 1 victory broke a seven game winning streak for Connie Mack's club.

Greenberg and Hayworth contributed home runs, while Fox got two doubles. Rube Walberg, debited with the defeat, lasted only two innings, and was replaced by McDonald after yielding four hits, one of them Greenberg's homer.

The schoolboy, pitching his first game against the Athletics, and working his first season in major league ball, behaved like a veteran. He walked only one batter, struck out seven, and was scarcely in trouble at all.

Fox scored Philadelphia's only run in the second frame, with a single, a steal and a single by C. Mack. From that point, not a home run man reached first base until the seventh, when Williams and Madjeski each singled, but died on base. In the third, fourth, fifth and sixth frames only three batters faced Rowe, and only 33 Philadelphia batters in all.

DASH MARK MAY FALL

Ralph Metcalfe... Marquette's dash competitor who is going out for a new record in the 100-yard dash.

By NEA Service Milwaukee, Wis.—A few years ago, when the Big Ten conference ruled its annual track meet exclusive to member schools, the Central intercollegiate outdoor track and field meet was organized. That meet has grown so it soon may rival the Big Ten.

It started with four schools: Notre Dame, Michigan State, Marquette and Butler; and when it's pulled off here at the Marquette stadium, Friday night, June 2, it will feature, in addition, stars from Wisconsin, Chicago, Michigan Normal, Western State, Northwestern, Grinnell, Bradley Tech and a few other schools.

Having run the 100 in 9.4 seconds once this season, Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette's Olympic sprint ace, will be the big noise. He is certain to break the group record of 9.8 seconds and may set a new mark.

CHISOX SPANK YANKEES, 8-6

Simmons With a Pair of Singles Continues Hitting Streak

New York, May 26 (AP)—The 1933 model Chicago White Sox roughed their heavy artillery into the Yankee stadium today and outslug the champion Yankees to win the first game of their series 8 to 6.

Chicago pounded Charley Ruffing and Danny MacFayden for 15 hits, but they had a narrow escape when the Yanks staged a last frame rally for three runs.

Young Paul Gregory held the Yankees to six hits in his stay on the mound and cracked out a double and two singles, scoring twice and driving in one tally. He showed signs of weakening in the eighth and Red Faber was rushed in. The veteran forced Ben Chapman to hit into a double play but after two were out in the ninth New York cut loose with three hits, including a triple by Earl Combs and a double by Joe Sewell for its closing rally before Babe Ruth grounded out to end the game.

Al Simmons continued his hitting streak through the 16th game, hitting two singles, Luke Appling hit a home run in the ninth.

Score by innings: Chicago 8-0-0-0-11-8-15-3. New York 1-0-0-0-0-5-9-1. Gregory, Faber and Hartnett, Ruffing, MacFayden and Dickey.

The last 25 years of rowing competition between Washington and California eight-oared crews have resulted in 20 victories for the Huskies to five for the Bears, exclusive of Poughkeepsie meetings.

SHIRES SUED FOR $50,000

The Great One Also on Bond for Malicious Assault

Louisville, Ky., May 26 (AP)—Art (The Great) Shires made news three times today. Most news, perhaps, was that Mr. Shires engaged somebody else to do his talking for him, Roscoe Searey, attorney at law. Searey less important was a charge of malicious assault set for a June 20 hearing, and a suit for $50,000 damages.

In police court, The Great Shires, slightly the worse for wear but with sartorial elegance undimmed, arranged a $1,000 bond. With Shires, who decorates first base when the Columbus Red Birds are in the field, was Jimmy Adair, Louisville second baseman, who also was charged with malicious assault and allowed $1,000 bond.

Victor's Leg Broken Not present in court, but considerably interested, was Jack Deacon, 32, nursing a broken leg and sundry lacerations in a hospital and trying to remember the details of a knockdown, drag out fight in his South Third street house just before midnight Thursday. By mid-afternoon, he had remembered enough details to file suit for $50,000 damages, charging Shires kicked him up in the midst of an altercation and threw him downstairs.

Shires Natty Dressed Deacon faces charges of malicious assault and conducting a disorderly house. His bond was $600. Minor characters in the tableau include Robert Armstrong and Carrie Potts, both charged with malicious assault, and Ruth Carsons, charged with disorderly conduct. All three, as well as Shires, are 26 years old.

Dressed in a natty sports suit, sports shoes and the latest thing in adhesive plaster, Shires gazed across his bruised and bandaged nose in court while the story was unfolded how Adair was believed in danger of being "rolled" for $125 by "a girl" and how Adair didn't like it. Also, how Deacon took up the girl's defense and Shires more than evened matters by defending Adair because "he's a small guy."

The audience was somewhat disappointed because they did not hear any of the loud and important noises which have been attributed to Shires. He was very busy keeping quiet. But they got an eyeful. Some of that of a circus manager, atmosphere prevailed for about an hour while Shires, Shires and Adair sat in the "holldover" and nonchalantly stared back through the cage-like enclosure at the gaping onlookers. The hold-over is in the courtroom proper.

Stanley Briel, the prosecutor, scented the prospect of more serious business and in fluent terms told the court Deacon's broken leg possibly would result in an amputation, and hinted that even death might result.

Word from the hospital, however, was that Deacon was in no immediate danger. He was quoted as saying when he gets out he will "see" Shires and "give him a broken leg with the bones sticking out of the flesh just like mine."

With that pleasant prospect to ponder, Shires adjourned to the ball park where rain stopped the game before he could illustrate what he told the surgeon who sewed up his nose, "without even a local anesthetic. 'I had tied 365 last week and I'm going out and bat 400 next week.'"

Cubs Go 10 Innings to Defeat Boston for Second Time, 4-3

The winning run was scored by Lynn Nelson, sent in to run for Gabby Hartnett who had singled. Bill Jurgens' double sent Nelson to third. He crossed the plate on Bill Herman's long fly.

BIG SIX STANDINGS

(By The Associated Press)

While all the other major league batting leaders except Al Simmons and the still idle Sam Vest lost a few points from their percentages, Johnny Hodapp of the Boston Red Sox improved his mark yesterday and gained a place in the Big Six at the expense of Ben Chapman. Hodapp hit twice in four attempts and lifted his average five points to .374, taking second place in the American League. Simmons hit twice in five trips to the plate but gained only one point and slipped into third place in his league.

The standing:

Boston Shuts Off Rally To Defeat Cleveland By 6-5

Boston, May 26 (AP)—The Red Sox shut off a late rally today to defeat Cleveland, 6 to 5, and even the series.

Cleveland scored twice in each of the last two frames to all but tie the score.

Roy Johnson hit a homerun in the third after Henry Johnson had doubled and Harland Boss, Indian first sacker, banded out a circuit walkoff in the fifth with the sacks empty.

Gabby Hartnett Keeping Champs Out of Cellar

Chicago (AP)—While his team-mate floundered in seemingly vain effort to strike a championship stride in defense of their 1932 National League pennant, Charles Lee "Gabby" Hartnett is flailing his way to a custom-made batting laurels.

The 32 year old Gabber has on many days this spring provided Cub fans with its only bit of cheer as the team wobbled deep in the second division.

The failure of high-priced Floyd "Babe" Herman to hit the ball in a manner consistent with his purchase price and the injuries that kept Manager Cholly Grimm and Hazen "Kiki" Cuyler out of the game for several weeks in April and early in May have had but one compensation silver lining—Gabby's phenomenally frequent and long hitting.

Hartnett, oldest "constant employe" in the club's playing staff—he has been a regular Cub catcher since 1922—has made a great start toward surpassing his one previous "big year," 1930.

That year he collected 37 home runs, leading the National league home standing most of the season, and batted .329. This season he has been from 59 to 75 points above the .300 mark all along and at the end of the first month of play had seven home runs.

Stanford, still the team favorite, picked up 15 qualifying places for tomorrow's finals and led the field for the day, thanks mainly to the sensational performance of a few points from their percentages.

Johnny Hodapp of the Boston Red Sox improved his mark yesterday and gained a place in the Big Six at the expense of Ben Chapman. Hodapp hit twice in four attempts and lifted his average five points to .374, taking second place in the American League. Simmons hit twice in five trips to the plate but gained only one point and slipped into third place in his league.

The standing:

Table with 4 columns: Player, Team, AB, R, H, Pct. West, Browns 118 19 45 381; Hodapp, Red Sox 115 11 43 374; Simmons, White Sox 134 28 50 373; Martin, Cardinals 130 29 48 369; Frederick, Dodgers 116 14 42 362; Traynor, Pirates 136 18 49 360.

Harvard Stadium, Cambridge, Mass., May 26 (AP)—Beyond forecasting a much closer battle than had been expected between the powerful track teams of Stanford and Southern California, today's qualifying trials failed to alter well-established expectations that most eastern opposition will be swept aside tomorrow in the ramp-rush of the two far western squads for title honors in the 57th intercollegiate A. A. A. A. championships.

Stanford, still the team favorite, picked up 15 qualifying places for tomorrow's finals and led the field for the day, thanks mainly to the sensational performance of a few points from their percentages.

Johnny Hodapp of the Boston Red Sox improved his mark yesterday and gained a place in the Big Six at the expense of Ben Chapman. Hodapp hit twice in four attempts and lifted his average five points to .374, taking second place in the American League. Harvard led the eastern brigade, with nine places. Michigan State, the sole mid-western contender, collected three places. The complete list of qualifying places: Stanford 15, Southern California 14, Harvard 9, New York university 7, Yale 5, Pennsylvania 3, Penn State 3, Cornell 3, William & Mary 3, Michigan State 3, Rhode Island State 2, Princeton 2, Manhattan 2, Bates 1, Boston college 1, Bowdoin 1, U. C. L. A. 1, Colgate 1, C. C. N. Y. 1, Fordham 1, Lafayette 1, Maine 1, Pittsburgh 1.

The Stanford captain, Ben Eastman, qualified easily in the 800 meters by running third in a 1:55.9 heat, eight yards behind Keller of Pittsburgh and seven back of Burns of Manhattan, but the American recordholder was not impressive. Eastman has only lately returned to competition after a long lay-off, due to a pulled leg muscle, and he will have trouble keeping pace tomorrow with such stars as Bill Bonthron of Princeton and Poncrace of Michigan State, who won their heats in addition to the runners he trailed today.

Warren, of Michigan State, was sixth in the heat Keller won. Liberty, of Michigan State, placed second to Milers of Stanford in their heat of the 200 meter low hurdles.

OPENER SUNDAY GETS INTEREST

Advance Sale of Ducats Quite Brisk, Munising Will Be Foe

Efforts to bring real baseball back to its own in Escanaba seem to be meeting with success. The advance sale for the booster opener with the newly formed Escanaba crew opposing Munising Sunday had been quite brisk and every indication points to a baseball crowd of enthusiasts reminiscent of the days when baseball was at its peak in this city.

Manager Murray Boyle who has been drilling the team for the past two weeks in preparation for the season reports that the club will be speedy, hard hitting and colorful. Many newcomers will be seen in action with the local club this season.

Bill Puckelwartz, former captain of the Michigan university baseball team, will be in the outfield for the Escanaba team against Munising, Boyle announced yesterday.

The complete team roster follows: catchers, Moberg and Moreau; pitchers, Van Effen, Burns and Brazeau; first basemen, Murphy, Anderson and Boyle; infielders, Andrews, Schram, Gregory, Schwallbach, and Phil Sullivan; outfielders, Puckelwartz, McGovern, Black, Elath and Ranquette.

Proceeds for the opening game will be used to pay the cost of the team uniforms and equipment. After the opener admissions will be reduced but this will be impossible unless sufficient receipts in the first game are accumulated to defray all initial cost of launching the team.

Munising is regarded as one of the classiest teams in the peninsula. They played a 12-inning contest with Negaunee recently, losing by a 5-4 score.

JOURNEY'S END PLEASING PLAY

Cast Scores Success in Escanaba Drum and Bugle Benefit

A fair-sized house enjoyed the American Legion drum and bugle corps presentation of "Journey's End," famous World War play, at the W. W. Oliver Memorial auditorium Thursday night.

An able cast made the most of the dramatic situations in the play, carrying the absorbing thread of the story through in conversations which took place in a British dugout of the trenches before St. Quentin. The stage setting, showing the interior of the dugout, was arranged with convincing realism, and the story moved steadily and smoothly through its various episodes.

Mrs. G. W. Moll directed. The cast of characters included: Captain Hardy—William Elmer, Lieutenant Osborne—Dr. Gordon Gleich.

Private Mason—Gerry Belanger, Second Lieutenant Raleigh—Jack Blomstrom, Captain Stanhope—Alton Mallman.

Second Lieutenant Hibbert—Vaughn Belanger, Company Sergeant-Major—Frank Bender.

The Colonel—Earl Flagstad, Second Lieutenant Trotter—Gordon Stegath.

German Soldier—Nevin Reynolds, Soldiers—Archie Wood and Roy Baldwin.

Sibilsky Brothers Ball Team Booked For World's Fair

The Sibilsky Brothers baseball team of Hurontown, Hurontown county, will meet the Coombs Brothers team in an exhibition game at the Century of Progress exposition, Chicago, in July.

The Sibilsky brothers, nine in number, are from 16 to 31 years old and are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Sibilsky, Sr., of Hurontown. They are Harold, Frederick, Jr., Carl, William, Frederick, Ernest, Elmer, Louis and August. Five of the brothers were members of the Hurontown Cubs last season, which finished second in the Copper Country league.

Lawton, Oklahoma, is the home of the Coombs Brothers team, which is composed of eleven brothers. Their ages range from 20 to 38 years, and they have been touring the southwest for the past two seasons.

These two teams are the only ones in the country composed entirely of brothers.

ESCANABA CUTS INSURANCE COST

Refunding Bond Issue of $36,000 Authorized
By the Council

As an economy measure designed to save money for the city, the Escanaba city council last night passed a resolution providing that the municipality carry its own compensation insurance for employees, and steps will be taken to put the new arrangement in effect as soon as possible.

The resolution also provides that city employees be subjected to an examination by the city doctor to determine their physical fitness for their positions, and in cases where the fitness of the individual is in doubt, the council is to pass upon the question of retaining or discharging the employee.

Another money-saving move was up for final action last night, when the council accepted the lowest of several bids submitted for a group fleet insurance policy on 13 trucks and four passenger cars owned by the city. It was found that a better rate could be obtained by insuring all vehicles in one concern as one group, and a bid of $333.94 was accepted for the item.

An ordinance was passed providing for a refunding of a portion of the city bonds coming due in the current year. The ordinance provides for the issuance of $36,000 in new refunding bonds paying five percent interest.

Final action was taken on the budget ordinance, which carries an appropriation of $122,247.10 to cover city needs for the coming year.

Porcupines Climb
Up Fire Towers

A porcupine's inherent tendency to climb up something, is not hampered by a 100-foot steel tower and many fire towers in the northern part of the state are favorite objectives for the quilled creatures, according to many field men of the Conservation Department.

Telephone wires running up the towers along one of its legs are frequently stripped of insulation by porcupines, and wood insulator brackets are often eaten. Towermen have found evidences of porcupines climbing to the floor of the cabin at the top of the towers but none have ever succeeded in breaking through.

One fire warden has submitted proof of his contention as to the porcupine's ability to climb the towers by offering a photograph of a porcupine climbing a steel leg far up toward the tower's top.

Two More Gardens Ask
Retail Permits In

Four applications for retail beer licenses were approved by the Escanaba city council last night. The group included two beer gardens, one restaurant and one hotel.

The applicants are:

Hotel—Sherman hotel, Ludington street, C. F. Glavin.

Beer garden—Anton W. Schils, 1629 Sheridan road; Harry J. Gierke, 123 North Tenth street.

Restaurant—Palmer Jergeson, 618 Ludington street.

Several other applications have been filed with the council, but action on them was deferred because of doubt as to the status of the desired retail designations. Some of the applicants are said to be contemplating a change in their applications from restaurant to beer garden because of the state liquor control commission definition as to what constitutes a restaurant.
